

BRYAN AND BOB IN AN ALLIANCE?

Discussion Of This Conjecture Is Revived By The Open Intimacy During Tour Yesterday

THE TWO MEN MET AT WATERTOWN

And Journeyed Together To Madison--Are They Planning To Merge Followers Into New Political Party?

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—Ave. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska and Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, in an open and friendly alliance, are planning to merge the present democracy and a large portion of the republican party into a new political organization, or are they simply members of a little mutual admiration society.

Discussion along this line has been revived by the intimacy of the two men during the Wisconsin campaign tour of the Nebraska state and the glowing tributes paid by Bryan to La Follette in his several badger state speeches.

Chapters From the Past.
More than two years ago, when La Follette was governor of Wisconsin, it became known that these two men held occasional long conversations over the long distance telephone; that each had a lively interest in the political fortunes of the other; that they entertained coincident views concerning not only questions of public welfare but also agreed and conferred with each other regarding the most effective measures and methods in practical politics. It was then noted about that they planned to form a new national party, to which Bryan should contribute substantially, the present democracy and La Follette would carry a large enough part of the republican vote to make up an organization of controlling strength in the nation. Just where the presidential office was proposed to go was not settled in the rumors on this subject.

Compliments Multiplied.
Wednesday, Mr. Bryan came into Wisconsin to speak for the election of gubernatorial nominee Aylward and the other democrats running for state offices, and for congress. Although Mr. Bryan got his train and was reported lost at Janesville in the morning, that his visit to Milwaukee was interrupted with a delayed Senator La Follette met him at Watertown and came with him to Madison, and after Bryan had lauded the Wisconsin senator in every Wisconsin speech he made, he multiplied the compliments that night in the crowded university gymnasium, while Senator La Follette sat in the audience. The Wisconsin man seems to take every available opportunity to even up the exchange of compliments.

Bryan's address at Milwaukee yesterday afternoon was heard by an audience of 2,500 people. The Nebraska devoted considerable attention to President Roosevelt, reviewing his achievements and praising him warmly, yet insisting that he was prompted in every instance by inspiration drawn from democratic platforms.

When he said he was delighted to have a chance to help the democrats whip the man who had whipped La Follette in this state there was more applause. But none of the cheering was of the roof-raising sort that used to follow the speeches of the democratic leader for years ago. The audience either was largely made up of republicans or the democrats are not as enthusiastic over Mr. Bryan as they were before he committed himself to

POLICY HOLDERS CAST VOTES FOR DIRECTORS

First General Elections Of Boards To Manage Big Life Insurance Companies Are Being Held Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 18.—Today marks a new epoch in the relations of the big life insurance companies and their policyholders. It is the first day of the period designated for the election of boards of directors by the policyholders. The control and manipulation of nearly $900,000,000 of insurance assets depends upon the result of the elections. It is the fruit of the memorable investigation instituted a year ago by the New York state legislature, when the high officials of the big insurance companies were placed on the gridiron and forced to reveal the inside workings of the business by which they had feathered their own nests out of the funds of the companies.

Under the provisions of the laws enacted by the last New York state legislature, complete boards of directors for the Mutual Life, the New York Life and the Mutual Reserve of New York city and the Security Mutual of Binghamton, are to be elected. By reason of the action of the stockholders and policyholders of the Equitable Life in voting to nullify the society as far as practically the action of a board of directors for this company also will be elected by its policyholders.

Tickets have been nominated for the five companies, and ballots with the names of the candidates have been mailed by the several companies to all policyholders. The polls are open today and will remain open two months closing December 18. Voting both by mail and ballot is allowed. Each policyholder has one vote for directors of each company in which he holds a policy. The holding of more than one policy in a company does not carry with it the right to more than one vote.

Policyholders of the Mutual Life are offered three tickets from which to select the names of thirty-six men to serve as trustees. New York Life policyholders will vote from two tickets. Policyholders of the Equitable, the Mutual Reserve and the Security Mutual have no choice but to vote the administration tickets or to refrain from voting, no opposition ticket in the case of any of the companies having been named.

All of the present directors of the Mutual Reserve and the Security Mutual have been renominated. In the case of the Equitable, the directors, on the recommendation of the trustees, the Ryan stock, have nominated an administration ticket containing twenty-eight names. The Ryan stock trustees will elect the remaining twenty-four members of the board. None of the men on the Equitable administration ticket was a director of the society under the old regime. The three Mutual Life tickets are (1) the administration ticket, (2) the united committees ticket, nominated jointly by the international policyholders' committee and the Mutual Life Policyholders' association, and the fusion, or so-called Mutual agents' ticket.

POLITICAL ISSUES IN NEW STATE MUDDLED

Both Republican And Democratic Parties Are Falling To Abide By Their Con- vention Platforms.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 18.—Politics in the new state is an extremely muddy condition and probably will remain so until the election of delegates to the constitutional convention next month. The district conventions have shown a wide divergence of views on many issues. One of the striking features of the situation is the failure of the conventions to abide by the "platforms" framed by the recognized party leaders of Oklahoma. This is especially true of the republicans.

The republican "organization" at the convention of the first congressional district held in this city, drew up a platform intended as a model to be followed by the republicans throughout the new state. This platform declared for rigid control of insurance companies doing business in the state, a railroad and warehouse commission and state control of all public service corporations, an employer's liability law, and laws prohibiting the employment of children in mines and factories, good roads, laws to foster and protect the gas and oil industry, a service pension and a law to insure the expenditure of irrigation and drainage funds within the state, the sale of the school lands, giving the lessees preference right of purchase, and strict control of banks.

The resolutions adopted at some of the district conventions since held by the republicans have dealt with questions not touched upon in the above platform, while others have adopted resolutions that are in direct opposition to the pronouncements of the platform framed by the organization.

BADGER FOOTBALL TEAM TO GET ITS BUMPINGS OCT. 20

In View of Wretched Game with Lawrence the Fans Predict North Dakota Will Swamp Wisconsin
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—The familiar baseball language, "hit and run," had been adapted by Coach C. P. Hutchins to describe the game to be played on the gridiron this fall by the University of Wisconsin football team. "Kick and run to beat the band" is the motto which he has caused to be established here in football training quarters. He has assigned to the conclusion that the new rules offer the best opportunities to the "kick and run" game that have ever been offered in football history. The forward pass, new rules for the "fair catch" and new regulations concerning "on-side" after punts will give the greenest advantage to the side that can run fast, kick long and keep it up, always watching for chances to recover the ball after it has been kicked. He is rather neglecting the scrimmage end of the practice in order to drill the team thoroughly in the kicking game. "Gody" Clark and Messmer are being used for nearly an hour each day to boot the ball down the field, where Springer, Cunningham, Sergeant and others receive it, and the remainder of the team is chased after the ball.

Expect Little of Faculty
The Lorenz, who was understood as having the call for center rush, has discontinued practice and the reason is given out that the faculty will not allow him to play. This last of a long series of losses to the varsity team, due to faculty adverseness, has not caused much displeasure, partly on account of the fact that such things are now naturally expected from the faculty, and partly because Stojich has been able to wiggle out from under the faculty ban and is playing a strong game at center.

Their 'Bumpings' Due Saturday
Johnson, one of the two regulars of last year who have returned, is back in the game after a temporary absence. He plays tackle. The coming game with North Dakota Saturday is arousing the greatest apprehension, because of the great weight that is put on the Dakotas and the fresh recollection of the wretched work of the badgers in last Saturday's game with Lawrence. While students are not so disloyal as to predict a Wisconsin defeat, the football fans of the city are settled in the opinion that Coach Hutchins' light youngsters will get "their bumpings" next Saturday in a defeat.

More Beer,--Less Strong Drink

Temperance Workers See Signs of Progress in Increased Sales of Beer.
Active temperance workers say the greatly increased consumption of beer in this country is a good sign of progress toward real temperance. It shows that beer is a healthful beverage, is fast taking the place of strong alcoholic drinks.

Superintendent Williamson of the Anti-Saloon League, one of the best known temperance workers, says the great increase in the consumption of beer does not show any falling off in temperance sentiment. Indeed, it is proof of more real temperance sentiment than ever before existed in this country. Interviewed by a Cleveland newspaper, Supt. Williamson said:

"It is doubtless true that there have been 100,000,000 more gallons of beer consumed during the past year than ever before. There is a steady decrease in the consumption of spirituous liquors, such as brandy, whiskey and wine, and a tendency to drink more malt liquors, such as beer. The decrease is doubtless marked in the one as is the increase in the other. Never before has temperance sentiment had such a strong grip on the people. I do not think there is any cause for worry because the beer consumption has jumped."

Supt. Williamson takes the logical view; for statistics prove that when a community or a state or a nation drinks more beer it drinks less liquor. This is important because beer is beneficial to the health, a nutritious and strengthening food, drink. The small percentage of alcohol in beer, only a little over three per cent in Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer, aids the digestion and is stimulating but not intoxicating.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is the most refreshing temperance drink. It is brewed from the best ingredients that money can buy or skill produce. Pabst exclusive eight-day malt, choice imported hops, pure water, and brewed in absolute cleanliness. It is the most wholesome beer because Pabst exclusive eight-day malt is produced from the best barley by a natural process of development, instead of by the quick, cheap process used in many breweries, and thus retains all the food value of the barley in predigested form.

Richest in food strength, best to the taste, most healthful and always pure and clean, Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is also lowest in percentage of alcohol, the beer for the home.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.
You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of It.
Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff, and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery, and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE BEST MEDIUM

"The best advertising for any city is a prosperous newspaper. One's ideas of those cities that have not been visited are nearly always gained from the columns of the newspaper. The city of New York has no advertisement equal to the prosperous appearance of its prosperous newspapers, and the same can be said of Chicago, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and in fact all of the larger cities and a large percentage of the smaller ones."

This fact, so well stated by the Commercial Union, is not more than half appreciated. The daily paper filled with live announcements tells the story of a city's life, and the absence of these announcements is regarded as evidences of decay.

The first impressions of a city are gained from the columns of the press, and the first thing that a man calls for when contemplating a change of location is the daily paper.

Many cities just now are discussing the question of advertising and all sorts of schemes are suggested. The best, the most effective and the cheapest way to advertise a city is for the manufacturers, the business men, and the professional men to fill the columns of the local press with advertising.

The manufacturer may argue that he has no interest in the local trade, the professional man may claim that he is fenced in by a code of ethics and the business man may have missed his calling and say that he does not believe in advertising. But all of these classes should have interest enough in their home town to announce in a public way that they are a part of it.

SAVING AND SPENDING

"Although France is carrying the enormous burden of perhaps two thousand millions of Russian securities, at a time when Russia is passing through a tremendous political and financial crisis, with the possibility of an ultimate repudiation, yet France is today enjoying the easiest money market in the world, and has great blocks of money to loan and an immense hoard of gold in her vaults."

"Why is this? What is the secret of the French financial power? Not mineral wealth, not a crop surplus, not even industrial activity. The secret lies simply in the fact that every man, woman and child in France spends less than his income. France is a nation of 39,000,000 savers. The United States is rapidly acquiring the reputation of being a nation of 35,000,000 spenders."

These facts, so tersely stated by the Wall Street Journal, are very significant and speak volumes on economic questions of most vital importance. The strength of France is thrift and economy, practiced so universally that it has become a national virtue. The weakness of America is extravagance indulged to greater or less extent by all classes. The average American, whether a wage-earner or independent artisan, enjoys a more liberal income than the citizens of any other country in the world, and while the savings banks attest the fact that economy is practiced to some extent, yet evidences of waste and extravagance are numerous on every hand.

The spirit of unrest which prevails today throughout the country and the socialistic clamor for distribution of property is fostered and encouraged by the reckless waste of money. Many people are not satisfied with the income which comes through legitimate channels, and are envious of others who accumulate.

The wealth of France is very largely in the hands of the masses, not because the nation enjoys peculiar advantages, but because the people are not wasteful. It is a poor country for the exploiting of gold-bribe schemes. The people are not speculators, and ambition is not wasted in a scramble to secure something for nothing.

America might well adopt the policy of these thrifty people. It would silence for all time much of the fanatical discussion now going on under the guise of reform and contribute largely to general contentment and happiness.

PECULIAR CONDITIONS

"The conditions existing within the ranks of the republican party in Wisconsin just now are, to say the least, peculiar. The note of harmony which heralded the nomination of Governor Davidson struck a sympathetic chord and cemented the party until today it presents a united front."

The only discordant element is found in the attitude of Senator La Follette and the state central committee are at a loss to know just how to handle him.

As yet he has failed to endorse the state ticket and while Governor Davidson is assured of his support his attitude toward Chairman Connor makes it impossible for the committee to handle him.

Senator Spooner is also placed in an embarrassing position, and while he tendered his services shortly after the primaries were held the chances are that he will be obliged to speak by invitation rather than by appointment.

The difference between the attitude of the two senators is this: Senator Spooner is loyal to the party and expresses a desire to serve it to the best of his ability, while Senator La Follette sulks in his tent because of disappointment.

If he will be satisfied to take it out in sulking there will be no particular cause for complaint, but from present appearances an active campaign against Connor is waging with the tacit consent, at least, of the new senator.

The Lancaster Teller, edited by Edward Pollock, an appointee in the capitol building to the position of state treasury agent by grace of a La Follette commission, is making vicious attacks on Chairman Connor. The following extract from one of them is a fair sample of the character of the attacks:

"Boss Connor probably likes to be called a boss. But Boss Connor is no boss. He is a mere tool. But as a tool he is making himself a conspicuous traitor. He should have the reward of a traitor."

"If the republicans of the state, who elected him, and for whom he has done so much to honor will recall their self-respect and then think of how La Follette has been dishonored through this man's subservience and little trickery with stalwart bosses, not one of them will vote for him."

"The 61,000 Leifroot men—not one of them should vote for him. The 95,000 republicans who did not come out to vote for either Davidson or Leifroot will do themselves credit if they will all vote against Connor."

"All of those 50,000 straight republicans, who are not stalwarts, but who voted for Davidson, should vote against Connor."

"Connor has tried to humiliate and bring to dishonor the state and the people's great defender. Cut him out. You are not asked to vote against Davidson. For him there is some excuse. He is the only man in the state that has any excuse. La Follette tried to get another man nominated over him. La Follette had a perfect right to do that, but we must give weak human nature the personal right of repentance. We would all do it probably and therefore we should accord the excuse. But who ever tries to humiliate La Follette deserves the execution of all good Wisconsin citizens."

"The way to redeem the republican party and save the state of the dishonor is to sit down on Connor."

This Pollock editorial is the keynote of the whole La Follette line of fight. Davidson is to be endorsed, but in such a manner as will be rather a statement that he is all right because he is harmless and then a fight is to be begun on Connor.

Under these conditions it is not at all surprising that the state central committee have no use for the disgruntled senator. It is well for the party that harmony again prevails. This insures success in November and La Follette will be the only loser. His best friends are not in sympathy with him in his present attitude toward the party.

Senator La Follette met Mr. Bryan at Watertown yesterday and accompanied him to Madison. This is as it should be. Bryan is a great admirer of the senator and takes occasion to compliment him whenever occasion offers. The two men are so much alike that they belong in the same party, but Bryan is not a democrat and the political complexion of La Follette has not yet been named.

The Milwaukee molders' strike, which has been in progress for months, was the cause of a riot and one death yesterday. Three men, who have been out of work all summer, and whose families were suffering, deserted the union, and went to work yesterday morning. On the way home at night, under escort, they were assaulted, and one of the assaults was killed. The boasted freedom of America in a burlesque in some respects, and the most cruel monopoly is the labor trust.

According to Bryan, President Roosevelt is more of a democrat than republican. There are a good many democrats who have more confidence in him than they have in the Nebraska leader and who will vote for him in 1908 in preference to Hearst or any other man that democracy is likely to nominate.

BLUNDER OF DEMMY COMMITTEE COSTLY

Fifty Dollars Was Paid for Special Train to Milton Junction—Spooner in City.

For the blunder on the part of the democratic state central committee managing William Jennings Bryan's tour of Wisconsin fifty dollars was paid yesterday. Had Col. Bryan been notified of the change in his schedule he would not have been in Janesville and had he been informed of the error immediately upon arriving there would have been no special train to Milton Junction. He could have continued on the regular train on which he came and made connections for Milwaukee, but the passenger had left when the committee at Milwaukee awakened to the facts. Then a special train was necessary and Candidate Aylward telephoned to J. J. Cunningham, chairman of the county democratic committee, to secure a special. If it cost $100, Mr. Cunningham succeeded in getting the train for just half the amount, the minimum price of a "special."

It was an odd coincidence, but while Col. Bryan came from Chicago, United States Senator Spooner arrived in the city from Madison at the same instant and at the same depot, both trains pulling in at once. Spooner alighted from his train for but a few minutes and extended greetings to two or three prominent republicans who happened to be on the platform. He continued his journey to Chicago on the same train.

Later he studied in Montreal, in Paris and in Rome, where he was ordained to the priesthood in 1882. He returned to Boston and spent several years as professor of rubrics and church history at St. John's Seminary. "Told in the Hills," a refined melodrama of the frontier where brave men engage in picturesque and heroic deeds and womanly women are the frank, outspoken and devoted comrades of soldier and scout, was presented by Edwin Arden and his superb company at the Myers theatre last evening before an audience which applauded to the hilt each thrilling climax. Every fine bit of acting—there were many—and all of the beautiful stage pictures wherein the "wild, cheery ranch house" with its atmosphere of the plains, the camp, and wild mountain "hunts" in sunshine and in storm, were reproduced with a fidelity to detail that both amazed and charmed. Those who were fortunate enough to witness this play will be ready to commiserate those Illinois cities whose engagements have been cancelled. For word suddenly came to the company this morning, before they departed for Chicago, to close the season Saturday night and report at once in New York. Edwin Arden, the "Genesee Jack," was no swindling boomer of the prairies. In the tensest moments of a dramatic situation he spoke quietly and his resonant voice carried a thrill to every listener. He had suffered much, he had given his name to the deserted wife and child of a rascally brother, and had gone into the wilderness an exile for loss of identity that the family name might remain unblemished. The first momentous situation comes in the very first act when he accidentally encounters this brother at the ranch house, whither he has brought from the storm the woman for whom he has conceived a love already hopeless by reason of the self-sacrifice he has undertaken. He meets this brother's pleas for pardon with all the harshness and hatred which the long seclusion with his torture has bred, visibly struggling with a savage impulse to kill. Splendid acting here and elsewhere is also done by George S. Spencer, who, by the way, is a cousin of Mrs. Mary L. Whiton of this city and lived in Milwaukee before New York claimed him. There are no wholly evil characters in the play. The erring brother redeems himself at the last, and even Captain Holt, unimaginative, precise, mathematical blunderer, shows that the sparks of nobility is in him when he surrenders the glove in the mountain gully. Miss Julia Dean, whose name off the stage is Edith Dohman and who is a daughter of a former proprietor of the St. Charles hotel, Milwaukee, proved herself an actress of ability in the leading feminine role of "Rachel Hardy" and Miss Louise Galloway was, always charming, as the faintly caricatured, little "Fred Dreyer." The incident of the accident which made it necessary for two soldiers to carry her into camp was unconventional and a less pleasing play would have found it a dangerous experiment. Fred Tilden gave a fine character sketch as "Lieut. Raftery" and the kitten comedy was a delightful bit of side play in which the audience was not admitted to his confidence any more than the actual recipient of his surprise. Harry Cashman as "Private Smith" and the balance of the cast were highly satisfactory. Janesville will hope to see more of these sterling actors in coming years.

NEW ENGINEERING HOME AT PENNSY

Magnificent New Building For That Department Will be Dedicated Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—Tomorrow will be a red-letter day in the history of the University of Pennsylvania. It will be the day of dedication of the magnificent new building which is to house the engineering department of the university. Six foreign governments, through their ambassadors or other representatives, the army and navy of the United States, and scores of scientific bodies and educational institutions will be represented at the opening ceremonies. The principal addresses are to be delivered by President Frederick W. Taylor of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and President Alexander C. Humphreys of Stevens' Institute of Technology. This new building cost nearly a million dollars and is the largest of the university group of seventy buildings. It is of fireproof construction and the equipment is of the most modern and improved type. There are three stories, with a total floor area of nearly 1,200,000 square feet. The building contains workshops, tool rooms, complete foundry, instrument-making rooms, and mechanical electrical and hydraulic laboratories. In the east and west wings of the building rooms have been set aside for engineering museums. There are also reference rooms, reading rooms, drawing rooms and halls for the meeting of the engineering societies. Altogether the new quarters are believed to be the finest and most complete laboratories of their kind to be found at any engineering school in the world. The engineering department of the University of Pennsylvania this year has a total enrollment of nearly 600 students and a teaching force of forty. The department was established in 1874 and the attendance has been increasing so steadily of late years that more spacious quarters were found imperative.

RINGLING CHARIOTS TO BE AUTOMOBILES

Warren Patrick Springs Sensational Circus News in the Billboard.

Warren Patrick formerly of Janesville, has the following interesting story in his "Pat-Chat" in a recent issue of the Billboard:

A report, emanating from an apparently reliable source, has reached us to the effect that Ringling Bros. contemplate making a radical change in the conduct of their show next season. It is stated that, within the past two weeks, they closed contracts with one of the two automobile manufacturers at Pontiac, Mich., for auto-trucks sufficient to equip every vehicle with the World's Greatest Shows, and that the negotiations were under way for fully a year before the deal was finally consummated. It is declared that the manufacturers securing the contract have stopped all other work and will maintain day and night shifts on the Ringling Bros. order until same is completed. The auto-trucks are to be delivered to the Ringling Bros. at their winter quarters in Baraboo, Wis., on a specified date, in ample time to assemble all of the equipment and have same in readiness for the opening of the 1907 season at the Coliseum in Chicago, next April. It is understood that the change in equipment will cost the Ringling Bros. in the neighborhood of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The above announcement will interest every one in the circus world. It confirmed it means a radical departure in big show methods. It is not known whether the Ringling Bros. intend to emulate the example set by the late James A. Bailey and eliminate their street parade. An auto-show has been the dream of many managers ever since the automobile craze first swept the country and it would really seem now as though the horseless circus was soon to be a reality. In the meantime the Ringling Bros. announcement of their plans for next season will be awaited with considerable interest.

EDITOR LIBBY OF EVANSVILLE DEAD

Veteran Newspaper Man of Rock County Succumbed to Pneumonia While Visiting East.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Oct. 17.—The terrible news reached this city at 4:30 p. m. today of the death of Caleb Ansel Libby, editor of the Evansville Enterprise and Tribune. His death occurred at Newfield, Maine, where he and his wife went about four weeks ago for a visit with relatives. A letter was received one week ago by his son, A. M. Libby, who is associated with his father in the newspaper office, that Mr. Libby was ill with pneumonia, but the doctors did not fear but that he would be all right in a few days. Nothing more was heard.

THE LATE C. A. LIBBY of his condition until the son received the death message this afternoon. Undoubtedly his wife will leave Newfield, Maine, with the remains at once and will probably arrive here Saturday or Sunday, but no word has been received from that point other than the news of his death.

C. A. Libby, editor and proprietor of the Enterprise and Tribune at Evansville, Rock Co., Wis., was a native of New Hampshire, born at Great Falls, Nov. 6, 1846. He lived in his native state until he was 9 years of age, and came west with his parents to Evansville, Wis., in 1855. His primary education received in the common schools was supplemented by a course in Evansville seminary. When the Civil war broke out it stirred the patriotic feeling slumbering in his breast, and being then too young to enlist he waited until 1864, when he became a member of Company D, 40th Wis. V. I. He remained in the service until honorably discharged by reason of the expiration of his term of enlistment. During that time he had a stroke and contracted a chronic disease which permanently affected his health.

On Nov. 6, 1869, Mr. Libby was united in marriage with Miss Lucella Crandall. After their marriage the young couple moved to Kansas, where they lived three years. They then came back to Evansville and here he had since resided with the exception of one year—1895-96—spent in Chicago. Since 1881 he had been editor and manager of the Enterprise and Tribune and achieved success in that line of work. He was a charter member of T. S. (Stephen Post, No. 41, G. A. R., a Mason, and a respected and worthy citizen.

Besides his wife he leaves three sons and one daughter. Fred, who entered the United States pension office at Washington, D. C. in 1893, and is now located at Portland, Ore.; Burr, who is in San Francisco, Calif.; Almond M., who was with his father in the newspaper work; and Alice M., now Mrs. Frank Turrell, who resides at Belvidere, Ill. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Byron Campbell, and one brother, Nathaniel Libby, both residing in this city. Another brother, William Libby, died but a few months ago.

PROMINENT PIONEER SUMMONED BEYOND

C. S. Decker, Former President of the County Board of Supervisors, Died Last Night.

At the advanced age of eighty-seven years, Cornelius S. Decker, one of Rock county's most prominent pioneer residents, passed away last evening at half past seven o'clock, death coming at his home in the town of Rock. The deceased was born in Orange county, New York, in 1820 and went out into the world for himself at the age of fifteen. For two years he served as an apprentice to a cabinet-maker, but failing health forced him to take up out-of-door work and he was a farmer ever afterward. For five years he worked as a hired hand and then he united in marriage with Jane E. Ashby. From then until 1855 he cultivated a rented farm, emigrating to Rock county on the latter date. He settled on section 7, town of Janesville, buying 1000 acres. This he sold twenty-one years later and purchased forty acres in Rock on which he lived until his death. He was one of the well-to-do farmers of the community and among the most respected residents. For five years he served as Chairman of the Board of County Supervisors, and has always been a leader in church, social and educational moves. He is survived by a wife and five children. They are: Jonathan M. Decker of Harmony township; Francis of Thayer, near Neyra; Theodore of Beloit; John of Milwaukee avenue; and Mrs. David Mould of Sioux City, Iowa.

Miss Frances Wiswell

Miss Frances Wiswell, a veteran public school teacher of Rock county, died yesterday at her home just south of the city. She had had schools in various districts and for a time taught in the city of Janesville. The greater part of her life was spent in the county and her numerous friends will mourn her loss. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Uri Lee and Mrs. F. F. Palmer. The funeral services will be held from the home Friday afternoon at half past two o'clock and the remains will be taken to Rockford for burial.

CIVIL SUIT SENT TO AFTON JUSTICE

Neighborhood Quarrel of the Fishers and Kelly's Will Be Aired Once More.

Frank Fisher, residing north of the city, has brought suit against his neighbor, William Kelly for the recovery of some $450 alleged to be due him for blacksmith work done by him for the defendant. The case was called in Justice C. W. Reeder's court this morning and William Kelly having filed an affidavit of prejudice, making Judge Reeder unqualified to try the case, it has been transferred to Joseph Williams of Afton. The law compels that suits be sent to the nearest judge qualified to try them and as Judge C. L. Fifield is out of the city and Justice Jesse Earle is one of the lawyers, the case had to be sent to the Afton justice. The suit is a continuation of a neighborhood quarrel, Mrs. Fisher, wife of the plaintiff, having recently sued Kelly on two charges, abusive language and the recovery of claims in municipal court. Kelly pleaded guilty to the former and lost the latter.

COUNTRY BUYERS ARE SUFFERERS

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE RULE IS DETRIMENTAL.

INJURY TO THE BUSINESS

Restriction on Prices Grain Dealers May Pay to Clients Confines Purchases to Those in Elevator Combine.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—The Chicago board of trade, because of its rules, was declared to be operating in restraint of trade at the interstate commerce commission hearing Wednesday.

The charge was made by William H. Bartlett, of Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington.

In addition, W. R. Warren, former president of the board of trade, declared that Chicago's grain business has been concentrated in few hands because of favors shown certain men by the railroads and because public elevators evade the law.

Mr. Bartlett declared that the board's "call rule," which fixes the price members may bid in the country for grain between the closing of one session of the board and the opening of the next, is in restraint of trade.

Poor Business Proposition.

Mr. Bartlett, on the witness stand, declared the rule to be a "poor business proposition for grain buyers." He said it is possible under the rule for a combination of brokers to fix the call rate.

"The rule is an injury to the business and a detriment to the community," Mr. Bartlett said.

"What is the purpose of the rule?" Attorney Marble, for the commission, asked.

"To prevent bidding closer to the market price than one-half cent a bushel of the actual price that would be paid," Mr. Bartlett said. "The rule limits the power of grain buyers so as not to interfere with the commission business."

"Do you think it a good business principle?"

"No, I never did. It is in restraint of trade, of competition, an injury to the business and a detriment to the community."

Injures Country Buyer.
"On whom does the direct injury fall?"

"On the man in the country. The rule is detrimental to any man bidding for grain in the country."
